A NUISANCE. For some time the merchants at the corners along East Drinker street, have been chafing and complaining at the surface water which has made with the "Traction company's" rails at this point and spread out in various directions on the road, making an unsightly and ill-smelling place at this, the centre of Dunmore.

The water comes from the ordinary sewer which was built at a wrong angle a few rods above the corners and which throws the water as described.

The attention of the street commissioners to this nuisance would receive the commendation of the merchants.
